Attacks Made on Workmen at Various Points, Police Guards Are Doubled and Hundreds of Pinkerton Men Are Engaged in View of Threatened Trouble.

The striking freight handlers and their sympathizers to the number of several hundred kept the police of two precincts busy around the New York, New Haven and Hartford piers at Gouverneur Slip to-day. But the strikers made it so dangerous for those engaged in the work that late in the afternoon it was practically

The freight handlers gathered in Gouverneur Slip early. At every corner there were ten or fifteen doing picket duty. There were a lot of sympathizers about too, and, as usual, the sympathizers made most of the noise. The men were alert because they had information that a number of men had been employed to take their places on the piers and had instructions to approach one by one so as not to attract attention.

There was another disorderly demonstration by the strikers and their friends in Rutgers Park, at the foot of Rutgers street, late this afternoon. James Johnson, a negro from Brooklyn, walking toward the river front, was held up by strike pickets. A large stone struck him in the mouth, cutting him badly. With blood streaming from his mouth, he ran toward the river, pursued by a crowd which swelled in numbers until at Water street there were over a hundred. All were yelling and many were throwing

The negro ran into the arms of a policeman, who tried his best to defend him, but one burly fellow grabbed the unfortunate man and knocked him down, while a shower of stones was aimed at him. The policeman dent in Providence says that Canfield whistled for help and a number of policemen responded. The crowd then dispersed and the negro was escorted to a place of safety. No arrests were

The first man attacked was met by a delegation of strikers at the Water street and Gouverneur Slip. He was an Italian, and a half block away other Italians were approaching. James Cannon, of No. 340 Cherry street, who the police say is one of the strikers, approached the italian friends say that he has sailed from and asked him if he was going to work. The Italian said that he certainly Boston for Europe to keep out of sight

"Well, we'll fix it so you won't do any work to-day," said Cannon, and he struck the Italian in the face, knocking him down. In less than thirty seconds ten men were at the Italian, beating and kicking him.

Cannon boasted so of his feat that Schoenfela ported at the Grand Jury root caught him and locked him up in the Union Market station. The strikers say that Cannon is not one of them, but a sympathizer. The police, however, say that Cannon is a well-known freight handler.

The biggest demonstration made by the strikers occurred at Cherry and Clinton streets when a truck of the George Cooper Express Company, of No. 52 East Fourteenth street, driven by William Hayden, of No. 255 West

Mr. Waterbury gave his telephone One Hundred and Fourteenth street, was attacked by over a hundred strikers and their sympathizers.

Hayden had been to the pier of the New Haven road to get eighteen cases of spool silk, valued at $3,500, which were to be delivered to Brainerd & Armstrong, of No. 841 Broadway. As he was driving off the pier, he says, a man approached him and told him if he didn't immediately leave his load he would be killed before he had gone a dozen blocks.

Hayden paid no attention, and wasn't molested until he got to the corner of Clinton and Cherry streets, where, he says, nearly fifty men surrounded the truck, cut the harness on the horses and cut the ropes holding the cases on the truck, with the result that they fell into the road. Some of the cases broke, and dozens of spools of silk rolled into the gutter.

There was a conference at the Grand Central Depot to-day between representatives of the strikers and the New Haven officials, but it came to The railroad officials practically ignored every demand of the strikers, and refused to recognize the leaders except as individuals. The committee of six which called left in high dudgeon.

MORE RIOTING THIS EVENING.

Charles A. William, of No. 143 West One Hundred and Fifth street, receiving clerk at Pier No. 45, and H. Rogers, nineteen years old, of No. 850 Columbus avenue, was set upon by a nowling mob of 300 strikers at Cherry and Pike streets, on their way home shortly after 6 o'clock.

Bricks were thrown and Williams was seriously injured by being hit on the head by a brier, while Rogers escaped with a lesser wound on the side of the head. Both were taken to Gouverneur Hospital, where their wounds were dressed, and they were afterwards sent home. Two arrests were made, but both prisoners were liberated for lack of

An immense crowd of men awaited the closing of business, but trouble was avoided by the company, which arranged to take the men away by boat, landing them at points uptown and in Brooklyn.

JAPS DRIVEN BACK IN AN ASSAULT ON PORT ARTHUR

Chinese Tell of an Unsuccessful Land Attack with Heavy Japanese Losses -Rumored Disaster to Three More of Togo's War Vessels.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 23-6 P. M.-According to reports which have reached the Russian headquarters at Liaoyang from Chinese sources the Japanese have made a land attack on Port Arthur, but have been repulsed with heavy loss. There is no official confirmation of the report.

The reoccupation of Newchwang by the Russians in force is due to the change in the situation produced by the loss of the Japanese ships last week. Gen. Kuropatkin originally had decided to abandon the town, because of Japan's complete mastery of the sea, but the losses sustained by Vice-Admiral Togo's fleet so change the relative strength of the two fleets that it is believed to render unsafe the despatch of Japanese transports around the Liaoyang Peninsula, as they run the risk of attack transports around the Liaoyang Peninsula, as they run the risk of attack by Rear-Admiral Wittsoeft.

CHEFOO, May 23—5.30 P. M.—The captain of a Russian merchantman, who left Port Arthur on May 20 and is among the recent arrivals from Dainy, says that the whole of the Japanese fleet had not returned to Port Arthur since the 15th instant, when, besides the battle-ship riatsuse, another big vesse! struck a mine and was towed away disabled. Gunboats and torpedo hoats returned off the port on May 20, when the Russians succeeded in sinking 2 small gunboat and two torpedo-boats.

The Russians are now confident of holding Port Arthur with the 30,000 men stationed there, exclusive of the navy and the crowd of mechanics working on the damaged warships, all of which except the Czarewitch and the Retvizan are ready to rejoin the fleet. These will also be ready for sea entrance to the harbor has been cleared and small boats now pass out freely from Port Artnur to Dainy.
